What is Climate Justice?

Climate justice is about how climate warming is causing problems for people all around the world, specifically the poorest people.

Why is climate justice an issue?

It's an issue because the rain can fall at the wrong time for farmers growing crops. It is also an issue because it causes floods and droughts.

Who is effected?

Poor people are effected because their houses could be blown down, torn apart or flooded. This means that it will be hard for them to find somewhere to live. Also people who live near the shore have to move to another country because the ice that is in the water melts and then the water rises higher and higher end then at this point people have to go across the water to a different country.

What can we do to help?

We can help by walking, recycling, going on a bike, grow flowers and plant trees or a tree in your garden.
